Climate Change Forests And Redd Lessons For Institutional Design:

Climate Change, Forests and REDD Joyeeta Gupta, Nicolien van der Grijp, Onno Kuik, 2013-02-11 A search for new methods for dealing with climate change led to the identification of forest maintenance as a potential policy option that could cost effectively reduce greenhouse gas emissions with the development of measures for Reducing Emissions from Deforestation and Forest Degradation REDD This book explores how an analysis of past forest governance patterns from the global through to the local level can help us to build institutions which more effectively deal with forests within the climate change regime The book assesses the options for reducing emissions from deforestation in developing countries under the international climate regime as well as the incentives flowing from them at the national and sub national level and examines how these policy levers change human behaviour and interface with the drivers and pressures of land use change in tropical forests The book considers the trade offs between certain forestry related policies within the current climate regime and the larger goal of sustainable forestry Based on an assessment of existing multi level institutional forestry arrangements the book questions how policy frameworks can be better designed in order to effectively and equitably govern the challenges of deforestation and land degradation under the global climate change regime This book will be of particular interest to students and scholars of Law and Environmental Studies

Climate Change, Forests and REDD Joyeeta Gupta, Nicolien van der Grijp, Onno Kuik, 2013 This books explores how an analysis of past forest governance patterns from the global through to the local level can help us to build institutions which more effectively deal with forests within the climate change regime The book assesses the options under REDD to reduce emissions from deforestation in developing countries in the context of other forest policies Based on an assessment of existing multi level institutional forestry arrangements the book questions how policy frameworks can be better designed in order to effectively and equitably govern the challenges of deforestation and land degradation under the global climate change regime

The Impact of Climate Change Mitigation on Indigenous and Forest Communities Maureen F. Tehan, Lee C. Godden, Margaret A. Young, Kirsty A. Gover, 2017-10-26 Legal frameworks to reduce emissions from deforestation and forest degradation REDD are analysed to focus on protections and benefits for indigenous peoples and forest communities

Climate Change and Forest Governance Simon Butt, Rosemary Lyster, Tim Stephens, 2015-02-11 Deforestation in tropical rainforest countries is one of the largest contributors to human induced climate change Deforestation especially in the tropics contributes around 20 per cent of annual global greenhouse gas emissions and in the case of Indonesia amounts to 85 per cent of its annual emissions from human activities This book provides a comprehensive assessment of the emerging legal and policy frameworks for managing forests as a key means to address climate change The authors uniquely combine an assessment of the international rules for forestry governance with a detailed assessment of the legal and institutional context of Indonesia one of the most globally important test case jurisdictions for the effective roll out of Reduced Emissions from Deforestation and Degradation REDD Using Indonesia as a key case study the book explores challenges that heavily forested States face in resource management to address climate mitigation imperatives such as providing safeguards for local communities and indigenous peoples This book will be of great relevance to students scholars and policymakers with an interest in international environmental law climate change and environment and sustainability studies in general Research Handbook on REDD-Plus and International Law Christina Voigt, 2016-04-29 REDD Reducing Emissions of greenhouse gases from Deforestation and Forest Degradation is an important tool under the UNFCCC for incentivizing developing countries to adopt and scale up climate mitigation actions in the forest sector and for capturing and channeling the financial resources to do so This Handbook eloquently examines the methodological guidance and emerging governance arrangements for REDD analysing how and to what extent it is embedded in the international legal framework Organized coherently into five parts contributions from legal experts international relations scholars climate change negotiators and activists explore the history and design of REDD in the UN climate regime as well as linkages between REDD and other international agreements The book also considers global governance for REDD its financial dimensions including markets and investment and future developments and legal challenges Detailed analysis from a range of angles illustrates the interplay of international norms and institutions and maps out a legal research agenda for identifying best practice solutions Shedding light on one of the most vibrant and fast moving fields in international law this comprehensive Handbook is essential reading for scholars of international law and international relations policy makers in the area of climate change REDD and land sector experts and NGOs REDD+ Crossroads Post Paris: Politics, Lessons and Interplays Esteve Corbera ,Heike Schroeder, 2018-04-13 This book is a printed edition of the Special Issue REDD Crossroads Post Paris Politics Lessons and Interplays that was published in Forests

Giuliana Ziccardi Capaldo employs her vast expertise in international law to select excerpts from important court opinions and to choose experts from around the world to contribute essay guides which illuminate those cases. Although the main focus is recent case law from the major international tribunals and regional courts, the first four parts of each year's edition features expert articles by renowned scholars who address broader themes in current and future developments in international law and global policy themes that appear throughout the case law of the many courts covered by the series as a whole. The Global Community Yearbook has thus become not just an indispensable window to recent jurisprudence; the series now also serves to prepare researchers for the issues facing emerging global law. The 2019 edition both updates readers on the important work of long-standing international tribunals and introduces readers to more novel topics in international law. The Yearbook continues to provide expert coverage of the Court of Justice of the European Union and diverse tribunals from the International Court of Justice (ICJ) to criminal tribunals such as the International Criminal Court (ICC) and the International Residual Mechanism for Criminal Tribunals (MICT) to economically based tribunals such as ICSID and the WTO Dispute Resolution panel. This edition contains original research articles on the development and analysis of the concept of global law and the views of the global law theorists such as a judicial knowledge sharing process as a tool for courts working together in a universal constitutional structure, the role of human rights treaty monitoring bodies in the international legal order and an examination of the consequences of the UN compact for the safe, orderly and regular migration on international law. The Yearbook provides students, scholars and practitioners alike a valuable combination of expert discussion and direct quotes from the court opinions to which that discussion relates as well as an annual overview of the process of cross-fertilization between international courts and tribunals. The Yearbook provides students, scholars and practitioners alike a valuable combination of expert discussion and direct quotes from the court opinions to which that discussion relates as well as an annual overview of the process of cross-fertilization between international courts and tribunals and a section focusing on the thought of leading international law scholars on the subject of the globalization. This publication can also be purchased on a standing order basis.

Research and Development on Genetic Resources Evanson Chege Kamau, Gerd

Winter, Peter-Tobias Stoll, 2015-06-05 National implementation of the Convention on Biological Diversity (CBD) provisions has yielded enough challenges for providers and users of genetic resources and associated traditional knowledge alike. The Nagoya Protocol brings novel ideas for resolving the challenges plaguing the Access and Benefit Sharing (ABS) process in general and non-commercial research in particular. This is one of the first books to address research cooperation and facilitated access for non-commercial biodiversity research. It uniquely offers concrete and practicable solutions based on experiences of researchers and administrative officials with ABS and on the interpretation of the Nagoya Protocol on how free and lively taxonomic research can be ensured while at the same time observing obligations of obtaining prior informed consent and sharing of benefits. This book will be useful to students of International Environmental Law. International
